Final Project Description

Date assigned: 11/21/11
Date due: 11/28/11
Points: 5% of the final project grade

You are to write a one page description of what you are planning to do for a final project. The final project description is to outline exactly what Android project you are going to implement. This project is to go above and beyond what we have learned thus far in class, so for example, you could do a game with animation, sound, use the accelerometer, … If you want to make sure you are on the right track, feel free to email me.

This description is to give me an overall view of what your project entails and then you are to give me the specifics of everything this project is going to do. I must be able to understand all of the specifics of the project so that I can help you decide whether the project is too big for the allotted time.

I will hand out a more formal project assignment, including information on the presentation, on Monday, 11/28/11.
