Group Assignment 3: Google Sites

Date Assigned: Wednesday, February 20, 2013
Date Due: Wednesday, February 27, 2013
Points: 12 pts

Create a Google site for your project. Your site will contain all of the information about your semester-long project. By the submission date, your site must contain the following:

- Your project name
- Names of team members
- Problem description and proposed solution
- Target users
- Interviewed users
- List of tasks (6 with a range of difficulties)
- First draft of interface design
- Group meeting reports: After every meeting, someone in your group should write up a report. The report will include the date and time of meeting, who attended, purpose of the meeting, and outcomes of the meeting.

This is a minimum. You can add more project related items to your site. For example: a list of references.

Try to organize your site so that it's easy to access the different parts. For example, don't place everything on one page. Creating this site is an exercise in HCI design!

Send me the link to your Google Site by the start of class on the day the assignment is due. You must make your site public.
