

CS490 Assignment 2

Project Goals

Date assigned: Tuesday, August 31, 2004

Date due: Tuesday, September 7, 2004

Points: 25

The documents that you will be producing over the next few weeks will eventually be integrated into your project specification. For this assignment we will focus on your project goals.

The goals should be a thoughtful list of what your project should accomplish. There are three types of goals for any project: project, time and career development. You should address all three goals in this section. The format is up to you; you may list them in a bulleted list or discuss them in a paragraph. In either case your points must be organized, effectively made and thoroughly explained (a short list of phrases will not suffice).

You should use the goals that you came up with in class as a starting point. Submit a hard copy of your goals at the beginning of class next week.

Throughout the duration of CS490 and CS492 you should keep electronic copies of all the documents that you produce in a folder on Winter2. I have created a folder called 'Senior Projects' and there are individual folders with your names on within that folder. The documents should all be formatted using a word processor.
